Dr. R. H. Stevens: It is a pleasure to give my testimony for your valuable medicine. I was sick for a long time with Dropsy, under the doctor's care. He said it was Water between the Heart and Liver. I it was Water between the Heart and Liver. I received no benefit until I commenced taking the Vegetine; in fact, I was growing worse. I have tried many remedies; they did not help me Vegetine is the medicine for Dropsy. I began to feel better after taking a few bottles. I have taken thirty bottles in all. I am perfectly well, never felt better. No one can feel more thankful than I do.

I am, dear sir, gratefully yours.

E. R. Stevens, esq.

Doar Sir—I had had a cough, for eighteen years, when I commenced taking the Vegetine. I was very low, my system was debilitated by disease. I had the Kidney Complaint, and was very nervous—cough bad, lung sore. When I had taken one bottle I found that it was helping me; it has helped my cough, and strengthens me. I am now able to do my work. Never have found any thing like the Vegetine. I know it is every thing it is recommended to be.

Mr. Paul's Strange Fate.

Dr. Goldschmidt, who made the post mortem examination of the body of Mr. J. Marshall Paul-who came to his death in so strange a way in Central Park Sunday night-said to a reporter last evening that he failed to discover any signs of foul play. Mr. Paul had died a natural death. He had an abscess of the liver just beginning to grow, and there were the sears left by an old abseess. Mr. Paul had also a slight enlargement of the heart. Dr. Goldschmidt decided that death had resulted from a chronic inflammation of the liver, and that the slight a dema of the lungs and the indications of unæmic poisoning in the kidney were only the consequences of his malady.

Mr. Paul belonged to a very old and well known family in Philadelphia. The person who had first called the attention of the Central Park police to the fact that a man was lying dead or dying on a beach near the Seventh avenuo entrance was a young woman, who gave her name as Lizzie Heindell, and her home as No. 350 West Thirty eighth street. Her story seems to indicate that Mr. Paul must have been near the verge of insanity at the time of his death. She is a brawny, bard handed, broad shouldered German woman, who, on being questioned, said :-

"I first met this gentleman at a picaic up at Sixty third street and Tenth avenue about three weeks ago. I made his acquaintance there, and he asked me to come out and take a walk with him the next Sunday evening. 1 met him at the time appointed, which was 8 o'clock, at the corner of Eighth avenue and Thirty eight street. We took a walk that evening, and I agreed to meet him again the next Sunday evening at the same place. He didn't get to the place till about ten or fifteen minutes after the time last Sunday evening .-We went through to Seventh avenue and walked all the way up to the park. I had on walked all the way up to the park. I had on light clothes, and he kept on asking me wasn't I cold. I said, 'No, why should I be cold?' He said, 'Well, I'm cold, and I'm dressed much warmer than you are.' Then he said several times, 'L'zzio, I think you must be cold, and you know you have a cold already.'

I said, 'No, I ain't cold. He asked me wasn't
I married. I said no I wasn't, but had been, and I asked bim wasn't he married? I seen that he was a man of age, and not likely to be single. He said, 'Pernaps, you think me a widower.' I laughed and said, 'Maybe you are.' The man never said a bad word to me all the time, and as he said he liked me lots when he first seen me at the pionic I thought he was a very nice gentleman. But he kept was a very nice gentleman. But he kept taiking about being cold, and he thought it was awful queer that I didn't feel the cold, too. When we got up to the Park the seats were all full. We walked on a little ways and found a seat that wasn't taken. So I said, 'Here's a seat.' He says, 'Well, we'll sit down just a minute and then go home, for it's awful cold. We sat down. He put one hand around my neck, and a hand around my waist, and I didn't say nothing, but put my hand on his neck. I am a decent woman, and every body that knows me will say so. When I told him how I had to work for a living he said he was poor too. He had been rich once, he said he was poor too. He had been rich once, but had lost all his money. He said he expected but had lost all his money. He said he expected to have some money, and that he would help me. Well, as we sat on the bench he leaned over and put his head against my shoulder. Then he began to snore. Says I, 'that man's got an a wful cheek to do such a thing as that.' Then he stopped snoring, and I shoved him with my shoulder, like that, but he didn't move. Then I looked and says that his mouth and ever was wide open. and saw that his mouth and eyes was wide open. I thought right away that the man was dead, and I dropped him and jumped up screaming. A policeman ran up and a lot of other folks. They slapped his hands and gave him a drink of water, but the policeman said, 'The man's dead.

-N. I'. World,

A VIRGINIA LEGISLATOR ABROAD, -A correspondent of the Staunton Vindicator, writing from London says: "The morning after we get here we went to a swell restaurant, the 'Criterion,' and two of the party seeing all of the waiters in full dress determined at once that this was the London style of dress for all gentlemen, and nothing would do but that they must go off that evening and invest in a ready made swallow tail suit and a third class beaver apiece, and appear on the street the next morning in full dress, much to the amusement of various boot blacks and crowds of oriticising Eoglishmen. They haven't worn them since, but are trying to dispose of them as old clothes. It would amuse you to death to see the ex-Speaker. I never before remember to have seen him look and feel quite diminutive, but he acknowledges the corp, and says he feels that he has no identity. If you could have seen him this morning bribing the assistant Sergeant at Arms of the House of Commons, which was very readily done, to pass us to the top gallery of the House to get a glimpse of the SODA WATER—We are now dispensing at our Branch Store, corner of King and Royal streets, ICE COLD SODA WATER, with genuine and delicious Fruit Syrups, at FIVE OENTS PER GLASS. We cordially invite a dignity for six years over a Virginia House of dignity for six years over a Virginia Heuse of Delegates, or the chairman who calmed with one stroke of his gavel the scething and turbulent State Convention that last assembled in Richmond. Fact nevertheless "

MRS. TILTON AND PLYMOUTH CHURCH .-Mesers, S. V. White, T. G. Tilney, Isaac Signor and Dr. George W. Brush, of the examining committee of Plymouth church, met at Mr. the churches and ministers in general, and Plymouth church and Rev. Henry Ward Beecher in particular. The committee decided that the letter should be returned to Mrs. Walton, with the request that her charges be made more specific and should apply to Mrs. Tilton alone, inasmuch as Mrs i Morse's connection with Ply-mouth church was severed in 1871. Mr. White said to a reporter that another member of the church would be found to prefer charges against ture, and Fruits of all kinds constantly on hand. Mrs. Tilton, provided Mrs. Walton did not lee Gream and Water Ices made to order, [ap18] comply with the committee's request.
